FOREWORD.

In presenting this publication to the Lawyers’ Alumni of The Ohio Northern University, we trust that we are filling a long felt want, and taking a step toward better fellowship and closer union among old classmates and friends of college days.

We have endeavored by every means to make this directory complete, and have spared no expense either of time or money, in our effort to locate and communicate with all lawyers who claim O. N. U. as their alma mater. This book is the result of almost six months’ work on the part of the undersigned committee, and though we have found our men loyal, and had their hearty co-operation, yet we feel sure there are some lawyers whose names have been inadvertently overlooked, through mistaken addresses or their failure to respond, or unavoidably omitted through our inability to reach them.

The alumni should note with pride the work being done by their brothers on the bench, at the bar, and in the legislative halls; for we have produced not only legal lights whose fame in forum is national, but also district attorneys, common pleas and probate judges, many representatives in the state legislatures, and several representatives to the national congress, among which latter, none is more popular than the Hon. F. B. Willis, of the Eighth District of Ohio, whose career as a statesman is but beginning. We must remember that we are in competition with alumni of other great schools who make organization and loyalty to their alma mater almost a religion, and we want to be ever in the forefront of every movement that may tend to advance the interests of our college or to elevate the standard of our profession. In this connection then, we exhort you, when in a strange town, never to leave it without calling on any alumnus who may be located there, and let us make ourselves felt as an organization.

Because of the utter impossibility of making this work absolutely complete and correct in every detail, this directory will be published again in a year or two, or as soon as deemed advisable by the alumni. To this end we would request that every lawyer send in the name of any man whom we have failed to reach, and also any suggestions he may wish to make in regard to his own name and location or any other matter for the subsequent publication of this work.

With gratitude to every person whose assistance has made this enterprise a success, and with best wishes and Godspeed to every alumnus of O. N. U., this book is respectfully submitted.

THE HARVARD LAW REVIEW

Has long been recognized both in this country and in England as the leading legal periodical in the United States. This magazine aims to present its readers with discussions by the most eminent men in the profession of the many difficult modern problems of the law, a full understanding of which is essential to all up-to-date lawyers. The character of the subjects treated is indicated by the following list of a few of the articles which have appeared or are now appearing in its pages:

Powers of Regulation Vested in Congress, by Max Pam.
The meaning of "Fire" in an Insurance Policy against Loss or Damage by Fire, by Edwin H. Abbott, Jr.
The Doctrine of Continuous Voyage, by Charles N. Gregory.
The New Federal Statute Relating to Liens on Vessels, by Fitz-Henry Smith, Jr.
Corporate Personality, by Arthur W. Machen, Jr.
Administrative Exercise of the Police Power, by Thomas Bud Powell.

Selden as Legal Historian, by Harold D. Hazleton.
Special attention is called to the Recent Note and Case Department wherein may be found a most thorough discussion of the legal principles involved in all the most important decisions in the different state and federal courts, as well as noteworthy cases in other common law jurisdictions. Both these notes and the longer articles are often cited by the courts.

PROOF OF ITS VALUE.

December 2, 1910.

American Law Book Company, New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—I have your favor of the 29th ult., sending me special offer on CYC. I return to you herewith, contract properly signed. I find that I cannot get along without CYC. I have tried to get along by borrowing it of my neighbors for two years, and I am now sending you the contract signed up, because I find CYC to be the best brief maker that I can get hold of, and I can hardly get along without it. I am a very busy lawyer, and cannot afford to waste time by sending out for books which I do not have, as I want to have the law where I can find it quickly. Very truly,

(Signed) EMERY ANDREWS, Atty. at Law,
Mattoon, Illinois.

GET CYC—YOU NEED IT

More Than 50,000 Lawyers Already Use it Daily.
All the Judges of the Supreme Court of the United States and of Every State in the Union Own CYC and Cite It in Their Decisions.

YOU NEED CYC, because:

(1) It is the ONLY legal work which embraces under each of its 429 subjects ALL of the law—both substantive and remedial.

(2) It eliminates, entirely, the purchase of new editions, as it is kept constantly abreast the current decisions by a simple and adequate system of Annual Annotations.

(3) Every principle of law laid down in CYC is supported by citations of decisions of the courts of the United States, Canada and England, to be found not only in the official reports, but also in the L. R. A., National Reporter System, American Decisions, American Reports, American State Reports, and, in fact, every authority that will assist the lawyer in briefing a case.

(4) It supplies you with a complete alphabetically arranged compendium of the law at small cost.
